Return to Thrifty Habits Means National Salvation

That tangible, material benefits will accrue to Tulsa financially from the intensive observance of national thrift week last week, the most extensive and far-reaching observance locally, is the belief of bankers and business men. There have already been perceptible results, in the reported increase of savings accounts in the junior thrift banks in the city schools, and bankers, while unable to furnish information so plain as in this instance, yet they diagnosed the pulse of their savings departments as beating stronger.

Thrift week of 1922 found Tulsa, with cities all over America, more receptive in mood than in previous years, for the feeling is abroad that there is one solution for a quick return to better conditions, and that solution is thrift, and if his country is to recapture its old-time normalcy the people must learn again the habit of thrift. Thrift speakers went to the schools nursing the conviction that it does not matter how well Tulsa children are educated to earn money if they don't learn how to live within their earnings. The head of the house and the housewife were also reached through civic and women's clubs in the hope, as one speaker phrased it, of correcting the evil that "most grown up folks think that savings are for children and not for themselves. We talk and talk to children about saving, but we fail to practice it ourselves and then we wonder why our teachings have not taken hold."

It was not seed of miserly hoarding that was planted in Tulsa soil last week. Rather, the reverse. Everywhere the good word was—save and spend wisely. The tendency of the teaching to spend and save judiciously was to dampen the individual get-rich-quick fever and to make unprofitable the fake promoter. Also stressed was the importance of owning a home, making a will, of maintaining a budget.

The effort put into the thrift campaign this year by bankers and business men is a fair example of the interest generally in economical measures of all kinds. Practice of thrift is especially essential to this city and this state because of their comparative youth. There are said to be only two sources of material wealth from an economical standpoint, one the savings and accumulations of the present generation and the other that handed down from one generation to another. The latter source of wealth has not reached a high state in Oklahoma yet because it is still close to the pioneer stage and hardly a generation has passed since its statehood.

GUARANTY ROOFING COMPANY GOES INTO LARGER QUARTERS

The Guaranty Roofing company has moved its offices and stock to new and larger quarters at Second and Lansing streets. Reason for the move as given by the firm was that this year's business, in their opinion is going to warrant larger space to handle it.

Increase in business is confidently expected by the Guaranty Roofing company during the next 12 months. In spite of the drawbacks of the past year, the company sold $25,000 worth of roofing and it expects to double that this year.

The price of roofing, the manager stated the other day, is down to 1913 level and the Guaranty has taken advantage of that fact and has bought four carloads with which to begin the season. Last season only one carload was bought.

This firm handles a full line of roof roofing, composition shingles and built-up asphalt material. It has arranged with one of the oldest insurance companies to have a special roof policy of the old time insurance companies to issue a special policy on all materials applied by them.

Handling wholesale as well as retail business, Hones stated that he can produce the finest article that is made and that the public does not need to send to eastern or northern factories to have jewelry repaired. It can be repaired here at home at much less trouble and for much less money.

This firm specializes in the mounting of rings, fine necklaces, bangles, platinum or gold. The Sanders Rones firm is located at 422-24 Boston Avenue.

PEACE METAL WEATHER STRIP SOLVES PROBLEM OF DRAUGHT
In the Peace Metal Weather Strip business for 15 years, G. W. Strawn of the Peace Metal Weather Strip company feels qualified to judge of what the commodity in which he deals can and will do. Dust, draught and dampness are kept out and heat kept in and the problem of comfort during months such as these is solved, says Strawn. At the same time, at least 20 to 30 percent less fuel needs to be used.

Strawn lists the state agency for the Niagara Metal Weather Strip company of Buffalo, N. Y. He moved to his present location the first of January in 1922, but he has been in Tulsa for the last 12 years. He was formerly connected with the Builders Supply company.
